WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends:

It is with great pleasure that I offer my formal congratulations to you on the culmination of your years of effort, endeavor, and achievement at the University of Connecticut.

When you cross the stage at commencement, you will become part of a great experiment that began on a hill in Storrs, Connecticut in the fall of 1881, and which today encompasses more than 280,000 fellow Huskies across the globe who are shaping our world in countless ways, from the heights of industry and public service to the daily joys and responsibilities of life in communities both large and small.

I know you will cherish many memories from your time at UConn. Among them will be moments that forged lifelong bonds of friendship at an all-night study session or the stands at Gampel Pavilion; discoveries in the classroom or the laboratory that helped shape and direct your career path; and the feeling of empowerment that comes from joining together with your peers on a service project, political cause, or even raising money for a children's hospital by dancing the night away at HuskyTHON.

These memories will be an inexhaustible treasury for you no matter where your journey leads next, and so will the values that you developed here at UConn: commitment to public service, passion for discovery, and a relentless desire to pursue excellence.

In the years to come, I ask only that you let those values bring you home to UConn. By this, I mean not only attending alumni gatherings and sporting events, but keeping us up to date on your achievements and triumphs, of which there will be many. Your friends, your peers, and your professors will benefit from this, but so will future generations of Huskies, who will look to you as mentors, models, and inspirations.

As you embark on the next chapter in life, I wish you the fulfillment of all the promise a UConn degree brings, and the immeasurable joy that comes with hard-won accomplishment.

Once again: congratulations! Huskies FOREVER!

Cheers,

COMMENCEMENT NOTES

Commencement Day at the University of Connecticut is a time of ceremony and pageantry, embracing traditions dating back to medieval times.

The University of Connecticut was founded as the Storrs Agricultural School in 1881 when the General Assembly accepted a gift of money and land from Charles and Augustus Storrs, natives of Mansfield. In 1893 when it became a land-grant college and officially opened to women, the name was changed to Storrs Agricultural College. As the mission of the institution grew, its name was changed in 1899 to Connecticut Agricultural College, and in 1933 to the Connecticut State College. At first a small but vigorous college with limited undergraduate offerings in agriculture, home economics and mechanical arts, with the development of a university program it became The University of Connecticut in 1939. The Graduate program began in 1935, and in 1949 the University awarded its first doctoral degrees. The regional campuses were established in 1946 to accommodate the influx of veteran students. Today, the University is made up of fourteen different schools and colleges. Through its administrative Divisions, Institutes, and Centers, the University is a Land Grant and Sea Grant College and a Space Grant Consortium Institution, privileged to serve the citizens of the State of Connecticut, and beyond.

Enormous expansion has taken place over the years together with increased enrollment. Today, the University has an enrollment of over 33,554 students. At Storrs, there are over 20,056 undergraduates and more than 8,250 graduate students, representing some 118 nations.

This May, the University will award over 8,468 degrees. Of these, approximately 5,845 will be Bachelor's degrees, 1,665 Master's degrees, 143 Juris Doctor degrees, 54 Master of Laws degrees, 82 Doctor of Pharmacy degrees, 52 Doctor of Dental Medicine degrees, 119 Doctor of Medicine degrees, 5 Doctor of Musical Arts degrees, 12 Doctor of Audiology, 7 Doctor of Education degrees, 16 Doctor of Nursing Practice degrees, 31 Doctor of Physical Therapy degrees, and 374 Doctor of Philosophy degrees. Also to be awarded are 26 diplomas in Professional Education and 37 Associate's degrees in the two-year Ratcliffe Hicks School of Agriculture.

The Commencement Ceremony, because of the large number of graduates, is divided into separate exercises, by college or school. The Schools of Dental Medicine and Medicine, located in Farmington, and the Schools of Law and Social Work, both located in Hartford, hold their own exercises. The Commencement procession in each of the exercises at Gampel Pavilion in Storrs is heralded by the ceremonial trumpets, acquired especially for the University's commencement.

The Academic Procession is led by the Bearer of the Mace, followed by the faculty. The University Marshal, identified by his Baton, follows the President, together with the speaker, members of the Board of Trustees, vice presidents, deans, and other University officials. The Mace is presented at the center of the stage while members of the platform party enter and take their places. Once the Mace is placed on the stand, it signals the beginning of the ceremony.

The Academic Gowns, Hoods and Regalia represent more than elegance or colorful attire. Academic caps and gowns continue a tradition which reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities of the Middle Ages. The early European universities were founded by the church; the students, being clerics, were obliged to wear prescribed gowns and caps at all times. Caps and gowns were once common forms of clothing and were retained by the clergy when the laity adopted more modern dress. Hoods are lined with the official color of the college or university which conferred the degree. The velvet edging of the hood varies in length for bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees. The color represents the appropriate degree. The tassel for the bachelor's and master's degree may be of color distinctive to the degree, and the tassel for the doctoral degree may be made of gold thread. The gown and hood of the University Marshal were made specifically for University ceremonies in the official colors of national flag blue and white. The Processional Marshals wear blue velvet "beefeater" berets.

The Mace is presented at all academic ceremonies. In medieval times maces were weapons of warfare, but today a mace is "a staff borne by, or carried before, a magistrate or other dignitary as an ensign of his authority." It is the emblem and symbol of the President's authority to administer the University. This mace was first used at the Inauguration of President Homer D. Babbidge, Jr. on October 20, 1962. It was designed by Nathan Knobler, former head of the Department of Art. The University's early seal, executed in beautiful wood carving, appears on both faces. A penny dated 1881 is affixed to it, to commemorate the date of the University's founding.

The Baton, carried by the University Marshal, was specifically designed for ceremonial activities at The University of Connecticut and was first used at the Commencement in 1968. The Office of Marshal can also be traced back to the medieval period, and the Baton is a symbol of the Marshal's authority. This Baton has silver mountings and is surmounted by a representation of the University's former seal in enamel, which itself incorporates the coat of arms of the State of Connecticut. The University Marshal, carrying the Baton, follows the Mace Bearer as he leads the academic procession into and out of the place of ceremony.

The Silver Collar/Medallion, worn by Radenka Maric, President, was first used in 1964, at the time of the University's Silver Anniversary. Each link on the collar represents one of the University's Schools or Colleges and consists of a cloisonné circle engraved with an appropriate design for the particular school and enameled with its traditional school or college colors. Hanging from the chain is a large silver medallion containing the University's early seal.

The Awarding of Degrees at the University of Connecticut is accomplished by a threefold process. First, the candidates for degrees of each respective school or college are presented by the University Marshal. The candidates proceed to the front, receive their diploma covers, are congratulated by their administrative officers, and return to their seats. Second, the School or College Marshal then officially presents the candidates to the Dean who acknowledges the candidates and declares the appropriate degree. Third, when all candidates have been duly presented, the President of the University (or the highest ranking official of the University in attendance) formally confers the appropriate degree. This is accomplished verbally at the time that she speaks the words:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Trustees of The University of Connecticut, and in accordance with the procedures and regulations of the University, I confer upon you the Associate's Degree, appropriate Bachelor's Degree, Master's Degree, Sixth Year Diploma, or degree of Doctor for which you have been presented at this One Hundred and Forty Sixth Commencement of The University."

The Recessional of the officials and faculty is once again led by the Mace Bearer and University Marshal. The graduates, along with the audience, are requested to remain seated until the recessional is concluded.

ACADEMIC HONORS

University Scholar

The University Scholar designation is the highest scholastic honor at the University. The individualized undergraduate programs of these students, which in some cases include work toward a graduate degree, are supervised by faculty committees. Up to thirty students are selected as University Scholars in the junior year. Candidates for the University Scholar designation wear a golden medal on a gold and blue ribbon at the Commencement exercises.

Honors Scholar

Honors Scholars are academically talented and highly motivated students who complete intensive two- to four-year programs, including Honors courses of unusual depth in the major field. Honors Scholars must demonstrate engagement in their major field and complete a departmentally-approved Honors thesis/Honors capstone project. Candidates for the Honors Scholar designation wear a silver medal on a blue and white ribbon at the Commencement exercises.

Honors Scholar and University Honors Laureate

Honors Scholars and University Honors Laureates are academically talented and highly motivated students who complete intensive two- to four-year programs. As Honors Scholars these students participate in Honors courses of unusual depth in the major field and complete a departmentally-approved Honors thesis/Honors capstone project. Honors Scholars show engagement in their major field through projects that support their professional development. Honors Scholars who complete additional academic and co-curricular requirements also earn the University Honors Laureate designation. This award recognizes breadth in Honors work, as well as engagement and involvement in a variety of communities. Candidates for the Honors Scholar and University Honors Laureate designations wear a white enamel and silver medal incorporating both awards on a blue and white ribbon at the Commencement exercises.

Please Note: An asterisk () after a graduate's name indicates that they are a candidate for dual degrees.*

Mark Sarkisian is a partner in the San Francisco office of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill LLP. He is a licensed professional engineer and structural engineer in 31 states. In 2021, Sarkisian was elected to the National Academy of Engineering, and is a member of the University of Connecticut Academy of Distinguished Engineers.

He received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from UConn in 1983, and his master's degree in structural engineering from Lehigh University.

Sarkisian's career focuses on developing innovative structural engineering solutions for over 100 major building projects around the world, including the Jin Mao Tower in China and the Al Hamra Fidrous Tower in Kuwait, both over 1,300 feet-tall. Sarkisian holds 10 U.S. patents and five international patents for high-performance seismic structural mechanisms designed to protect buildings in areas of high seismicity including the pin-fuse seismic systems and for seismic and environmentally responsible structural systems including the BayArc tidal responsive barrier and the sustainable form-inclusion system. He also holds a patent for the environmental analysis tool used for embodied carbon calculations and a machine learning tool that correlates as-built construction to working drawings.

Sarkisian has authored over 150 technical papers related to the design of building structures, and in 2012 completed his first book, "Designing Tall Buildings – Structure as Architecture." He teaches integrated studio design courses focused on collaborative design opportunities at the University of California, Berkeley; California College of the Arts; Stanford University; California Polytechnic State University; Northeastern University; North Carolina State University; and the Pratt Institute. Sarkisian is an invited speaker, lecturer and studio critic at several universities throughout the world including UConn.

SCHOOL OF NURSING COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER AND HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

Joan Y. Reede, MD, MS, MPH, MBA

Dr. Joan Y. Reede, appointed as Harvard Medical School's (HMS) first Dean for Diversity and Community Partnership in January of 2002, has been responsible for promoting inclusive excellence in health, biomedical, behavioral, and STEM fields, as well as growing individual and institutional capacity to foster innovation and impact, build on a foundation of excellence, and advance health equity.

Dr. Reede is a graduate of Brown University and Mount Sinai School of Medicine. She completed a pediatric residency at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland, and a fellowship in child psychiatry at Boston Children's Hospital. She holds an MPH, an MS in Health Policy Management from Harvard T. H. Chan School of Public Health, and an MBA from Boston University. Dr. Reede is a member of the National Academy of Medicine (2011) and a fellow of American Association for the Advancement of Science (2019). She serves as a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) on their Board of Directors and previously as the chair of AAMC Group on Diversity and Inclusion (GDI). She is the recipient of honorary Doctor of Science degrees from the New York Institute of Technology and Georgetown University. In July of 2024, Dr. Reede was recognized by the W. Montague Cobb/National Medical Association Health Institute (The Cobb Institute) by receiving the W. Montague Cobb Lifetime Achievement Award.

In 1989, Dr. Reede served as the medical director of a community health center in Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Youth Services. She worked as a pediatrician in the community, serving populations in academic health centers, public schools, and juvenile prisons. In 1990, Dr. Reede founded the HMS Minority Faculty Development Program and currently serves as faculty director of the Community Engagement programs. In collaboration with the Massachusetts Medical Society and the New England Board of Higher Education, Dr. Reede founded the Biomedical Careers Program (BSCP) in 1991. A collaborative, community-based organization, BSCP's scope of involvement includes academia, private industry, medical centers, public education, and professional societies. BSCP's goal is to identify, inform, support, and provide mentoring for academically outstanding students, fellows, and early career professionals in the biomedical and health sciences.

Dr. Reede created and developed more than 20 programs at HMS that address pathways for those who are interested in careers in medicine, academic and scientific research, and the healthcare professions. Supported by a dedicated staff, she has developed mentoring programs for students from middle school through the graduate and medical school levels. She has also designed a training program for middle and high school teachers, developed science curricula for public schools, implemented research and exchange clerkship programs at HMS, and designed and implemented innovative fellowships in health policy for physicians, dentists, and doctoral-level mental health professionals.

At a national level, Dr. Reede's advice and expertise is highly sought after amongst several committees and councils, such as her appointments to the Health and Human Services Advisory Committee on Minority Health, the Board of Governors for the Warren Grant Magnuson Clinical Center, the Sullivan Commission on Diversity in the Healthcare Workforce, the Advisory Committee to the Director for National Institutes of Health, and the Advisory Committee on Genetics, Health, and Society for the National Institute of Health.

Richard Eldh

Rich Eldh was born in the village of Ardsley, NY, and moved homes five times between the ages of 5 and 15. Moving from New York to Wisconsin, to various places in Missouri, and then to Connecticut, he developed an early understanding of people and friendships.

He attended Staples High School in Westport, CT, graduating as a three-sport athlete and an all-state football player. After high school, he enrolled at the University of Connecticut. During his first two years at the university, he lived in Stowe B, an all-men's dormitory of 60 students on the South Campus.

In what would have been his junior year, 1978–1979, he took a leave of absence to travel abroad, living in Kempten, Germany, in Bavaria. There, he worked at Dixie Union, a manufacturing company, as a computer programmer, where he developed new automation software for the finance department. This experience in Germany highlighted the significant impact computing technology would have on business. Motivated by this realization, he decided to pursue a career in the computer industry. After working nine months in Germany, he traveled throughout Europe and North Africa, including Communist Yugoslavia at the time. These travels profoundly transformed his worldview from an insular American perspective to a broader, global cultural understanding, permanently influencing his interactions with others and igniting a passion for international business.

Upon returning to the University of Connecticut for his final two years, he majored in finance at the School of Business. His favorite course was international economics. He enjoyed his major and worked off-campus as a waiter and dishwasher in one of the dormitories while delivering pizzas at night. Still filled with adventurous curiosity, he drove 3,000 miles from Connecticut to Seattle, WA, after his junior year and secured a position with a salmon canning company. He was first flown to Anchorage, Alaska, then to a small town called Dillingham. As a supervisor at the Naknek salmon canning plant, he managed 200 college students from Washington and Oregon, discovering his aptitude for leadership.

Rich graduated in 1981 with a finance degree from the UConn School of Business. He declined an entry-level job offer from Xerox Inc. in NYC to return to Alaska as a supervisor in Dillingham, and later in Dutch Harbor. Located at the very end of the Aleutian Islands, Dutch Harbor was where he heard there was substantial money to be made during the king crab fishing season—which proved true. After Alaska, he traveled and hitchhiked through the North and South islands of New Zealand and then visited Australia.

From the ages of 20 to 24, he had many unique work and travel experiences that instilled in him a deep, universal understanding of people, motivations, relationships, and cultures. This exposure laid the groundwork for his lifelong understanding and pursuit of what he later recognized as Servant Leadership.

After working and traveling, Rich was ready to start his career. The tech industry was where he wanted to be. He first joined a manufacturing firm implementing automation software, then moved to Four Phase Systems, a Motorola company, selling data entry systems. Later, he joined Hewlett-Packard, specializing in manufacturing systems and automation. It was at HP that he met his wife; they married and started a family.

After working for two very large corporations, Rich joined a startup called Gartner Group in Stamford, CT. He was the 100th employee, and in ten years, the company grew from nine million dollars in revenue to just under a billion dollars with 4,500 employees. He served in various roles, ultimately becoming an executive officer responsible for overall top-line revenue as the company went public and reached a market cap of $2.8 billion. His career at Gartner allowed him and his family to work and live globally. Today, Gartner boasts a market cap of $38 billion with 21,000 employees.

These early career highlights led Rich to co-found Sirius Decisions, which became a leader in high-performance go-to-market research and benchmarking. Headquartered in Wilton, CT, Sirius Decisions grew to 400 employees with private equity backing and offices worldwide, including in Boston, San Francisco, Austin, Toronto, London, Singapore, and Amsterdam. The company was eventually monetized for approximately $300 million through a sale to a public company in Boston. Throughout his career, he has had the honor of working with associates and clients across more than 50 countries.

Alongside his career, Rich and his wife Joyce raised three children: two daughters and a son. They have each found success in the medical field, the fashion world, and the blockchain and crypto industry, respectively.

With 40 years of continuous learning, Rich is eager to share his thoughts and ideas with the Class of 2025 at the University of Connecticut School of Business.

Harish Prasad

Harish Prasad has consistently been a dedicated student during his undergraduate years at the University of Connecticut. His academic journey is marked by excellence, having graduated magna cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in Business and Data Analytics in the Fall of 2024.

As an Honors student consistently on the Dean's List, Harish has demonstrated a strong commitment to his studies and the university community. He conducted his Honors thesis on blockchain technology and parametric insurance, showcasing his ability to tackle complex and innovative topics. He has also served as a tutor at the UCONN Q Center for various subjects such as business math, pre-calculus, calculus, statistics, and physics, to name a few. Currently, he is a T/A for the Operations Research class in the university's economics department.

Harish's technical skills include proficiency in Java, SQL, R, HTML, CSS, Python, Weka, Microsoft Office Products, and Google Workspace. He has also gained valuable experience through two internships at Travelers in the Product Management Development Program, where he applied his analytical skills to a variety of projects. Known for his critical thinking and effective communication skills, Harish aims to leverage his expertise in business analytics to make meaningful contributions to the betterment of communities.

Maggie Mitchell Salem

Maggie Mitchell Salem joined Connecticut's Integrated Refugees and Immigrant Services (IRIS) as Executive Director in January 2024. IRIS is a non-profit organization whose mission is to help refugees and other displaced people establish new lives, strengthen hope, dare to dream, and contribute to the vitality of communities in Connecticut and across the country. IRIS provides housing assistance, employment assistance, healthcare support, legal services, education, assistance, and case management to immigrant and refugee families throughout the state of Connecticut using a strengths based model. Given the exponential increase in the number of refugees, humanitarian parolees, and other immigrants that IRIS assists, Maggie has focused on organizational structure, systems, and policies that create a strong foundation for the organization's continued growth.

Throughout her nearly 30-year career, Maggie has managed diverse teams focused on civic education, intercultural dialogue, social and political rights, and forced displacement. Among other accomplishments, she led the National Democratic Institute's democratic governance program in Tunisia. She also served as a U.S. Foreign Service Officer in Mumbai and Tel Aviv, and as staff on the Executive Secretariat of Secretary of State Madeleine Albright. Maggie was a Fulbright Scholar in Syria while studying for her Masters in Contemporary Arab Studies at Georgetown University. She received a bachelor's degree in political science and psychology from Johns Hopkins University. While Maggie does not hold an MSW, her career embodies and advances the mission and values of the social work profession. She has two sons and two daughters. She lives with her six dogs and two cats in East Haddam and enjoys volunteering with the Goodspeed Guild.

Daniel Mercier graduated from the University of Connecticut, Bachelor of General Studies (BGS) in 1995 with a focus in Visual Communications. After serving as a Graphics Specialist for a few years, Mr. Mercier returned to the University of Connecticut in 1998 as a Media Producer. In 2001, he transitioned to the role of Instructional Developer in the Instructional Design and Development Department. After completing a Master of Arts in Educational Technology in 2003, Mr. Mercier became Manager of Instructional Design and Development and ultimately served as Assistant Director and Director of the Institute of Teaching and Learning. In 2015, he took on the role of Director, Instructional Design, in the Center for Pedagogical Innovation at Wesleyan University. In 2017, Mr. Mercier returned to the University of Connecticut as the Director of Academic Affairs at the Avery Point Campus of the University of Connecticut. Throughout his 30-plus-year career, Mr. Mercier has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to the development of instructional tools, to help faculty utilize technologies to reach our students. In his work, he has supported faculty, staff and students across the higher education landscape. His commitment to the University of Connecticut spans nearly 25 years. In his current position, he recruits faculty, oversees academic advising and other academic support programs, and develops partnerships between the Avery Point campus and other academic entities within and outside the University of Connecticut. These partnerships include the support of students in the Bachelor of General Studies Program.

Rodney A. Butler

Rodney A. Butler is the Chairman of the Mashantucket Pequot Tribal Nation (MPTN) since January 2010. Butler's service on Tribal Council began in 2004, and after one year, he was appointed Tribal Council Treasurer; a position he held through 2009. During his tenure, Butler chaired the Tribe's Finance, Housing, and Judicial Committees, the MPTN Utility Authority, and served as an Interim CEO for Foxwoods Resort Casino.

Butler earned his Bachelor's Degree in Finance from the University of Connecticut where he played Defensive Back for the UConn Huskies' football team. Prior to Tribal Council, Butler worked in the finance department at Foxwoods Resort Casino. He later became Chairman of the Tribal Business Advisory Board; an executive body responsible for overseeing the Tribe's non-gaming businesses and commercial properties. Butler was actively involved in multiple resort expansions at Foxwoods, as well as community development initiatives on the Reservation, the establishment of the Mashantucket (Western) Pequot Tribe Endowment Trust, and the legalization of Sports Betting and iGaming in the state of Connecticut. He was also a participant in Harvard Business School's program "Leading People and Investing to Build Sustainable Communities." He is a regular speaker on national panels related to Native American issues.

Butler presently serves on the Board of Directors for Mashantucket Pequot Interactive and is on the board of Foxwoods El San Juan Casino. He also serves as the President of Native American Finance Officers Association (NAFOA), as Alternate Vice President for the National Congress of American Indians, and on the boards for the United South and Eastern Tribes, Indian Gaming Association, American Gaming Association, the Mystic Aquarium, and the United Way of Southeastern Connecticut. He is the 2019 recipient of the Citizen of the Year award from the Eastern Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, and the National Indian Gaming Association's John Kieffer Sovereignty Award. In 2018, he received the St. Edmund's Medal of Honor Award from the Enders Island Retreat Center. In 2017, Butler was appointed "Tribal Leader of the Year" by the NAFOA.

As Chairman, Butler's primary focus is to ensure long-term stability for the Tribe's citizens, government, and business enterprises.

Maureen Ahern

Maureen Ahern is an Executive Leadership Coach on her third career whose journey began in the same classrooms as today's graduates. A proud Husky who earned both a Bachelors and a Masters, Maureen's connection to UConn runs deep. For over 10 years, she returned to UConn Stamford each week as an Adjunct Professor, teaching Interpersonal Communications and Public Speaking after her corporate day job in NY, driven by her belief that becoming a great communicator gives you the power and confidence to take meaningful action to shape your future.

Maureen started as a Sales Executive at The Associated Press and quickly rose to lead the Satellite Networks division before transitioning to Standard and Poor's Comstock. At S&P she led many different departments as Director of Operations, VP of US Sales and Managing Director for Asian and South American markets, building successful international relationships while traveling the world.

She was part of the management team that sold Comstock to IDC and then pivoted from corporate into the digital world, as Partner and COO of momAgenda, where she helped build a thriving e-commerce company.

Drawing on her teaching background, leadership experience and desire to coach and mentor others, Maureen completed her leadership coaching certification at Georgetown University's Transformational Leadership Institute. Today as Founder of Ahern Leadership Coaching and Consulting, Maureen partners with C-suite executives and emerging leaders across industries, facilitating leadership development through one-on-one coaching, team coaching, and specialized training and leadership development workshops.

Her coaching philosophy- described by clients as "tough but loving"-centers on her belief that leaders aren't born, they are made and that everyone has leadership capacity waiting to be unlocked through awareness, action and courage.

Maureen was a mentor with the Freshman Founders Program at the Werth Institute at UConn Stamford, in addition to her volunteer work with CT NEXT and Startup Westport as a business mentor. She is also an angel investor with Tidal River Fund whose goal is to fund underrepresented founders.

When not working with her clients whom she loves and adores, Maureen enjoys yoga, beach walks, and time with her three adult children (Patrick, Brendan and Caeleigh). She shares life in Cos Cob with her husband Mike Santini (fellow UConn grad) and their black lab, Nino. She is always ready with a glass of wine and a conversation about what's possible when you dare to take action.

Joe La Puma

Joe La Puma serves as SVP of Content Strategy at Complex JNTWRK and hosts Complex's Sneaker Shopping, the world's No. 1 sneaker show, which has garnered over 1 billion views on YouTube. He has been at the forefront of sneaker and street culture at Complex for the past 15 years.

La Puma attended the University of Connecticut, where he started his journalism career writing for The Daily Campus and was voted "Rookie of the Year" by fellow staffers. After graduating from UConn in 2005 with a degree in Journalism, he returned to Bay Shore to manage The Finish Line—where he previously worked in high school—while contributing articles to both local and global publications like Newsday and Hypebeast.com.

In 2006, La Puma landed an internship at Complex magazine, a pop culture publication specializing in convergence culture through hip-hop, sneakers, and fashion. Since those humble beginnings, La Puma has written more cover stories (21) than any other writer in Complex history, including profiles on Justin Bieber, Katy Perry, and Kid Cudi. La Puma is also a published author of the book Complex Presents: Sneaker of the Year: The Best Since '85. In his current SVP role, La Puma has led Complex to over 200% growth in audience and engagement.

In 2014, Complex debuted the YouTube show Sneaker

Shopping, a series that La Puma created and hosts to this day. Over the past decade of Sneaker Shopping, La Puma has interviewed icons like Eminem, Whoopi Goldberg, Kevin Hart, Mark Wahlberg, Billie Eilish, Cristiano Ronaldo, David Beckham, and conducted one of the only lifestyle interviews with former Vice President Kamala Harris during the 2020 election cycle. The show has filmed episodes across the U.S., as well as abroad in China, England, Spain, and Japan.

With his extensive editorial work on footwear and over 300 episodes of Sneaker Shopping, La Puma is regarded as one of the foremost sneaker experts in the world.

Joe is a three-time Webby Award winner and has been featured in the NY Post, Good Morning America, and on The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon. In 2024, La Puma was inducted into the Bay Shore High School Hall of Fame, a group that includes only 79 members since the school opened in 1893.

Since graduating from UConn, La Puma has visited the campus to speak to undergraduate UConn Journalism classes. He was profiled in the June 2023 issue of UConn Magazine.

La Puma currently lives in Brooklyn, and takes half-days at work when he can during UConn Basketball March Madness runs.

Joe Honcz, BS Pharm, MBA

Joe Honcz is a distinguished expert in managed care and market access, boasting a robust 25-year career that spans significant sectors of the healthcare industry. Early in his career, he played a pivotal role in leading teams for the launch of Medicare Part D, followed by instrumental involvement in the implementation of the Affordable Care Act while at Anthem BCBS and Aetna.

Since 2020, Joe has leveraged his profound understanding of managed care to deliver strategic market access insights, empowering over 20 biotech and pharmaceutical clients to effectively navigate complex market dynamics. His contributions have been crucial in the successful launch of innovative products in both traditional and rare/orphan disease categories. As a "pharmacy futurist," he continues to drive innovation and shape market access strategies at Petauri Health, supporting the emerging pharmaceutical and health tech industries. His exceptional ability to anticipate industry trends has consistently provided clients with strategic advantages, enabling them to stay ahead of competitors with foresight and precision.

Beyond his professional endeavors, Joe is actively involved at Yale Ventures as an Entrepreneur-in-Residence and at the University of Connecticut Technology Commercialization Services in the same capacity. He has also served as an Adjunct Professor at the University of St. Joseph School of Pharmacy and is on the Board of Directors for the Academy of Managed Care Pharmacy (AMCP) and Avery's Little Army, whose mission is to honor the legacy of Avery Marie Lafferty, an exceptionally brave cancer rebel, and all patients like her.

Joe's extensive background is complemented by diverse roles at Pfizer, Walgreens, Humana, PrecisionAQ, and CVS. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy and a Master of Business Administration with a concentration in Marketing from the University of Connecticut, underscoring his deep roots and commitment to the field. In addition to being a Board member, he is also an AMCP diplomat to the UConn School of Pharmacy, where he fulfills his passion for mentoring and coaching.

Manasse Mbonye

Professor Manasse Mbonye, an astrophysicist, is the current president of the Rwanda Academy of Sciences. He leads the Rwanda Astrophysics Space and Climate Sciences Research Group at the University of Rwanda, where he also conducts research in the field of cosmology and supervises students. He is widely published in cosmology and black hole astrophysics, and his contributions to theoretical physics include the Mbonye-Kazanas model of non-singular black holes, formation of supermassive black holes, and cosmology with interacting dark energy. Mbonye recently put forward a new model of cosmic dynamics known as self-regulating cosmology, which he continues to work on.

In 1961, Mbonye and his family fled Rwanda to neighboring Uganda, where he grew up in a refugee camp. His parents, who were educators, instilled in him early the importance of education. Having been interested in mathematics — which he thought of like classical music — and philosophically inquisitive about the nature of things, Manasse decided before high school that he would become a physicist to “put words in the music.” In the 1970s Mbonye fled for his life again, this time to Kenya. He waited 10 years for an opportunity to continue his education in the U.S. in 1986.

In 1990, Mbonye met UConn Professor Ron Mallett at a physics conference in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Mbonye was so impressed by Mallett’s talk on black holes that in September he moved from Michigan to study under Mallett, specializing in astrophysics. Mbonye was pursuing his physics Ph.D. at UConn during the Rwandan genocide of 1994. After a visit to Rwanda that year, he established a non-profit organization, the Rwanda Education Reconstruction Effort. With the support of the UConn Physics Department he coordinated the collection and shipment of books and computers to Rwanda. He had previously worked with then-UConn President Harry Hartley and Connecticut Sen. Chris Dodd to intervene against illegal solicitations by a pre-genocide Rwandan diplomat in 1993. For his academic and societal accomplishments Mbonye was named the Outstanding UConn Ph.D. graduate of 1996 by the Hartford Courant.

After graduating from UConn, Mbonye held research fellowships and was a visiting assistant professor at the University of Michigan. Later he became a National Research Council senior associate researcher at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland and held a faculty position at Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT). In 2011 he became the RIT-NUR Research Professor just before returning to Rwanda to lead the reconstruction effort of the National University of Rwanda (NUR) and of the scientific education and research sectors in Rwanda.

Mbonye served as vice rector for academics (provost), and later, acting rector (president) of the National University of Rwanda from 2011 to 2013. He was appointed NUR Professor in 2013. During his administrative tenure, NUR established academic relations with several international universities and received over $55 million in grants, in part from the Swedish International Development Agency. Mbonye was the last NUR rector before the 2013 merger that initiated the new University of Rwanda and was a member of the task force that established the University by merging NUR with other public educational and research institutions.

Mbonye was in 2013 appointed to lead the new University of Rwanda College of Science and Technology as its first principal. Under his tenure the college competed for and won establishment of three World Bank-sponsored African Centers of Excellence: the African Center of Excellence in Energy for Sustainable Development, the African Center of Excellence in Internet of Things, and the African Center of Excellence for Transportation. Mbonye was also instrumental in establishing the ICTP-East African Institute for Fundamental Research, a Rwandan hub of the famous International Center for Theoretical Physics (ICTP) in Trieste, Italy, a UNESCO-funded research institute founded by the late Abdus Salam, the 1979 Nobel Laureate in Physics.

In 2017 Mbonye was appointed by the Rwandan government to head Rwanda’s National Council for Science and Technology as its executive secretary. There he set up the National Research and Innovation Agenda and the National Research and Innovation Fund framework, the latter of which was launched by the government in June 2018. Until September 2018, Mbonye served on the board for East African Science and Technology Council, during which time the council established its science policy. He also served as the board chair of Rwanda Energy Group, Rwanda’s sole electric power provider, from 2015 to 2018.

Manisha Juthani, M.D.

Dr. Manisha Juthani, is the Commissioner of the Connecticut Department of Public Health (DPH). Juthani is the first Indian American to serve as a commissioner in the State of Connecticut. She served as professor of medicine at Yale School of Medicine through September 2024 and currently serves as an adjunct professor of medicine. She served as Director of the Infectious Diseases Fellowship Program from 2012 to 2021. Juthani received her B.A. from the University of Pennsylvania and M.D. from Cornell University Medical College, completed Internal Medicine residency training at New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Weill Cornell campus, and served as chief resident at Memorial-Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. She came to Connecticut in 2002 as an Infectious Diseases fellow at Yale School of Medicine.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Juthani was a leader in the COVID response at Yale which led to her appointment as Commissioner of CT DPH in 2021. In the early days of the pandemic, she was a voice to help educate the public in both local and national media outlets, a role she was able to expand in her role as Commissioner. Upon joining CT DPH, she helped guide Connecticut out of the pandemic and worked to revitalize areas of public health, such as gun violence, maternal health, opioid use, and sexually transmitted diseases, that were exacerbated during the pandemic.

As she continues in her role as DPH Commissioner, Juthani has shifted her core vision to “Preserve and Protect Core Public Health Principles and Services.” As Connecticut is presented with new public health challenges, she remains committed to preserving public health achievements made over the years, including improvements in regulatory oversight in healthcare, drinking water, and environmental health which includes food safety. It is more important than ever to highlight the importance of vaccines, control of infectious diseases, road safety, and healthier mothers and babies. Clear, accurate communication about public health risks is vital to her mission. She continues to advocate for health as a human right which is the core vision of CT DPH. Juthani is on the Board of Directors of UConn Health.

COMMENCEMENT

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL – DOCTORAL CEREMONY COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS AND HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENT

The Honorable Sethuraman Panchanathan, Honorary Degree Recipient

The Honorable Sethuraman Panchanathan is a computer scientist and engineer who recently stepped down from his position as the 15th director of the U.S. National Science Foundation (NSF), which he had held since June 2020. NSF is a $9 billion independent federal agency and the only government agency charged with advancing all fields of scientific discovery, technological innovation, and STEM education.

Dr. Panchanathan has a distinguished career in science, technology, engineering, and education that spans more than three decades. He served as executive vice president of the Arizona State University Knowledge Enterprise, where he also founded the Center for Cognitive Ubiquitous Computing. Prior to becoming director of NSF, Panchanathan served on the National Science Board for six years and has also served on and chaired numerous high-level research and innovation organizations. He is a member of the National Academy of Engineering and a fellow of the National Academy of Inventors, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Association for Computing Machinery, and other prestigious science and engineering organizations. Dr. Panchanathan's scientific contributions have advanced the areas of human-centered multimedia computing, haptic user interfaces, and person-centered ubiquitous computing technologies for empowering individuals with a range of abilities.

Željko Bošković, Ph.D., Edward C. Marth Mentorship Award Recipient

Željko Bošković, Ph.D., is a University of Connecticut professor of linguistics and faculty affiliate in the cognitive science program. His research aims to gain a better understanding of the human language faculty. This is done by examining sentence structure, conducting broad cross-linguistic comparisons involving numerous related and unrelated languages, and looking into the relationship between language and broader cognitive mechanisms.

Dr. Bošković is the winner of the 2025 Edward C. Marth Mentorship Award. According to his nominators, "The easiest way to sum up Željko's approach to mentoring and advising is with the following words: complete commitment." Not only do his advisees continue in the academic profession, they do so in large numbers. Dr. Bošković's 30 years of service has yielded an incredible 45 completed Ph.D.s, and he is currently advising 16 more. He has also served on the advisory committee of 37 Ph.D. students.

From application to graduation, the students of Dr. Bošković receive his devotion and unwavering attention. They are his priority, and his sensitivity to their needs and attention to their well-being is foremost. His guidance continues well beyond graduation, as he continues to mentor them in their subsequent positions. Students apply to the linguistics department from all over the world to work with Dr. Bošković, owing to his huge international reputation as a mentor and a scholar.

Michelle Neitzey, Student Speaker

Michelle Neitzey has demonstrated an innate enthusiasm for scientific curiosity, creativity, teamwork and outstanding mentoring and leadership skills during her academic endeavors in the molecular and cellular biology department. She is a highly accomplished, globally engaged scientist who exemplifies the achievements of a UConn Ph.D.

Neitzey's research on genome dynamics of marine invertebrates, including horseshoe crabs, deep-sea tube worms, and cold-water corals has been featured in a cover story in the journal Molecular Biology and Evolution. Her interests include connecting genomics with biodiversity and conservation efforts. While on campus she helped create an inclusive environment for people curious about science as assistant director of the Women in Math, Science & Engineering (WiMSE) Learning Community. In this role she demonstrated strong leadership and made successful connections with a new generation. In addition, Neitzey led expeditions to support tag-and-release efforts for the horseshoe crab through Project Limulus in collaboration with Sacred Heart University.

SCHOOL OF LAW COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Arunan Arulampalam

Mayor of the City of Hartford

The son of Sri Lankan refugees, Arunan Arulampalam was born in Zimbabwe and made a home and a family in Hartford after graduate school. Prior to being elected mayor in November 2023, he served as CEO of the Hartford Land Bank, where he developed a first-in-the-nation program to train Hartford residents to become local developers and tackle blight in their city.

Arulampalam served in Governor Ned Lamont's administration as Deputy Commissioner of the Connecticut Department of Consumer Protection. Before that, he was a lawyer at the downtown firm Updike, Kelly & Spellacy, P.C. Arulampalam also served on the Board of the Hartford Public Library, the House of Bread, and on the Hartford Redevelopment Authority. He earned his BA in International Studies from Emory University and his JD from Quinnipiac University School of Law.

The official seal of the University of Connecticut depicts the ancient and mighty oak. Beautiful and sacred, the venerable oak symbolizes wisdom, longevity and hospitality. To Aristotle, the oak represented human potential.

The oak holds a special place in Connecticut's history. In a time long before statehood, the Connecticut colony's self-governing status was guaranteed by a charter issued by King Charles II of England. When, in 1687, his successor King James II attempted to reinstate the monarchy's authority, the Crown's emissary's efforts were foiled as the Royal Charter was secretly spirited to a temporary hiding place—a majestic oak in Hartford, forever after known as the Charter Oak. The oak became a symbol of freedom worldwide.

The oak has unique meaning for the University as well. In 1884, the commencement exercises of the second graduating class of the Storrs Agricultural School were held in an oak grove on the Storrs campus. This grove, long a favorite gathering place for a variety of open-air meetings, served as the spiritual home to the growing community of scholars.

The University of Connecticut's graphic interpretation of the oak is a stylized synthesis of two acorns and three oak leaves, representing maturation, intellect and moral strength. The seal is the symbol of a large and diverse institution; it is used by all of the University's schools, colleges, regional campuses, professional schools and UConn Health. It communicates the broader mission of the University as a center for the pursuit, the creation, and the sharing of knowledge. The University of Connecticut, like the mighty oak, is rooted in a proud past and reaches toward a limitless future.
